FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

As Layflat.Com Bookbinding Business Expands, Website is Updated

Meggen, Switzerland (June 15, 2021) – Even with the restrictions of COVID-19 in many countries, Layflat.com has continued to grow since its founding last year. With the success of its EU-qualified bookbinding systems in automating premium layflat book production, potential customers are enquiring from all continents. To support these developing customers, Layflat.com now has sales/distribution/support partners in 22 countries, and has updated its website www.layflat.com.

“Small-to-medium size printers worldwide are recognizing that automating production of layflat books is essential for competing in this growing of high-value-added premium market segment,” said CEO Djawad Khorosh. “With our portfolio of automated layflat bookbinding systems designed for both single- and double- sided printing, our international team is working closely with these printers to improve their workflow and lower production costs,”

Although headquartered in Switzerland, Layflat.com has woven together a close-knit alliance of highly regarded companies from around the world to offer reliable regional manufacturing, sales and customer support. All systems are manufactured to meet stringent EU requirements.
